

MUCH WEDDED MRS. HALE IS BACK WITH FOUR DOGS

Arrives in State on Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, Brought by "Home-Sickness."

Surrounded by four dogs and a number of male passengers, who had danced attendance upon her during the greater part of the voyage, Mrs. Roberta Menges-Corwin-Hale arrived here today on the Hamburg liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. On the passenger list her name appeared simply as "Mrs. G. Hale." When she called from New York, last autumn, she announced she did not intend coming back "ever again." But today she said home-sickness had overcome her and led her back.

The four dogs got her into trouble with the customs officials. The inspectors were unusually keen in their examination of Mrs. Hale's baggage, because she once spent three days in the Tombs for bringing a fur coat into the country without paying duty on it. After they had gone through her trunk, they came to the dogs, and then her troubles began. Mrs. Hale insisted the animals were dogs of high degree and were bought for breeding purposes, but she could not produce their family trees, so she had to pay $50 on them. She was told she could get back the $50 upon proof of her statements about the dogs. As she turned away from the customs men, she said: "They are bound to get me for something."

There seems to be some doubt as to what she intends doing here. She was met at the pier by Mark Luescher, of Verba & Luescher, theatrical managers, and Mr. Luescher, after a talk with Mrs. Hale, said she would soon appear in a musical comedy which has been written especially for her. Mrs. Hale, however, rather denied this, but in a half-hearted sort of way, saying she had had quite enough of publicity.

NEW FOREIGN PRODUCTIONS PLANNED FOR NEW YORK

Marc Klaw, of the firm of Klaw & Erlanger, also returned today on the Kaiserin. He has been travelling about Europe for a month with a weather eye on theatrical productions worth importing. In Berlin he saw "The Little Cafe," Tristan Bernard's French farce with a musical setting, and this will be produced here next autumn by Klaw & Erlanger. The firm will also give New Yorkers an opportunity to see "The Marriage Market," a Hungarian operetta, which Mr. Klaw secured in Budapest. A singular feature of this operetta is that all the scenes are laid in California. Franz Lehár, composer of "The Merry Widow," has written an operetta, "The Merry Widow," which rights to it were secured by Mr. Klaw in Vienna. This will be sung here next season.

Harold Talbot, the man milliner, was another passenger on the Kaiserin. When he was forced into bankruptcy, he sold his tailors' shop and moved to the city of Vienna. He would not pay their bills. Now he has come back to start in the millinery business again. He said he would be able to pay all his creditors in six months.

Harold L. Wendenburg, a fellow voyager, is the German authority upon home-sickness. He has come to this country at the request of the city of Boston, to inspect the harbor and suggest improvements.

WANTS DUVEN REWARD.

An echo of the famous Duvon kidnapping case, which resulted in the Government's collecting more than $100,000 in fines from the Fifth Avenue art dealers, was heard in the Supreme Court today, when John Maynor began suit against Auguste Lammey, Payne, the Government informant, for $100,000.

Maynor said Payne came to him in August, 1909, and entered into an agreement with him by which Maynor was to assist Payne in running down evidence in the Duvon case. He said Payne agreed to give him ten per cent. of any award he might receive from the Government in recognition of his services. Maynor desires that since the payment of the fine by the Duvons, Payne has received or is about to receive an award of $100,000 from the Government. He says he has repeatedly asked Payne for settlement, but has never received a cent.

3,000 MEN'S SILK CRAVATS
In a Remarkable Sale
Unusual Value Even for Macy's . . . 53c

Every scarf a gentleman's scarf, every shade, and shapes such as are to be found only in high-grade men's silk neck-dressing.

Among the cravats are changeable effects, broches, megalars, bias stripes, plain colors, Persian effects and, in fact, that combination of style, design and colors which distinguishes the superior cravat from ordinary kinds.

Quite a number of these are made of genuine English Spitalfields silks, which supply only four of one particular pattern, and which, therefore, are exclusive in the very best sense.

A tie for every man, no matter what his taste. An opportunity that happens but once in a while.

SUPERB DAMASK TABLE CLOTHS

From France, Belgium, Ireland and Scotland

During our recent inventory we discovered that several cloths had no napkins to match. We then decided to make special prices on these several "numbers" in order to start afresh with an unbroken stock for the new business year.

The designs represent the highest art of damask designers—one cloth has interlaced ovals of tea roses; another an oblong panel and border of delicate lily sprays and ribbon loops; another butterflies flitting over huge bouquets, the napkins showing the bouquets only in one corner; still another a Moorish design in large and small circles within a square border.

We are glad to announce, for the benefit of those women who will use no other kind, that a number of John S. Brown & Sons' "Shamrock" Linen Damask Cloths are included.
